The outpatient healthcare market is extremely complex and economically different from other sectors. The considerable number of specialist groups, regional distinctions and a complicated billing system require very special expert know-how.

ATLAS MEDICUS® brings transparency to the healthcare market

How does the economic business model of healthcare professionals work? What exactly does a pulmonologist do? How many gynaecologists are there in a region? What minimum turnover is required? What are the opportunities and risks? – Many questions that you can answer competently with ATLAS MEDICUS®.

Access a dashboard where you can see everything you need to know at a glance. It offers you the possibility to give expert advice on any mobile device (e.g. smartphone or tablet).

With the help of our digital consulting assistant 'Finance Planner' you can keep an eye on all the economical key figures of a practice - from practice establishment to expansion to succession. With little manual input, you can set up practice controlling over a multi-year basis for your client and calculate the value of practices according to the modified income approach. Of course, all information can be saved and reports printed if desired.

'Infodienst' provides you with all the basic information on the healthcare sector and its specialist groups. Besides general market information, you will also find regional and national performance data, cost structures as well as information about diagnoses, investment recommendations and much more. This saves you a lot of time you would otherwise spend on data research. Additionally it's also possible to create group-specific reports according to specifications.

You want to get details of the market as well as its specialist groups via data that is visually adapted resp. presented in maps? You need information on requirement planning or selective contracts for primary care physicians? 'Region Analyzer' offers the data required down to county level.

ATLAS MEDICUS® allows you to advise doctors, dentists and other medical professionals digitally, competently and professionally in all stages of their life.
